Body Protection

When you think of overalls, you imagine a mechanic under a hood or a farmer driving his old tractor on a farm tilling land. But, overalls and reflective jackets are useful in a lot more industries. Reflective jackets and overalls offer required body protection against certain risks like bruises, injuries and so much more.

Reflective Jackets

Reflective jackets are made of bright colors and have reflective tapes to increase your visibility in conditions where you might not be easily seen. But that is not all they do. A good reflective jacket will also keep you warm in cold weather and dry in rainy weather, as many are water resistant. We have an array of high quality, high visibility reflective jackets to choose from. Our designs include hooded or those with removable hoods, bomber jackets, and others. We also have reflective jackets for women and reflective vests.

Fall Protection

Roofers, painters, construction workers, and window cleaners are just some examples of workers that have to climb to high points when they work. Falling from such heights might not only lead to maiming but also death. It is therefore imperative for workers that work from such heights to invest in safety harnesses.

A safety harness not only protects you from falling; It also allows you to use both your hands while working. You can also concentrate on doing your work since you are not worried
